ABOUT UF

The University of Florida is a top-10 public, comprehensive, land-grant, research university. The state's oldest and most comprehensive university, UF is among the nation's most academically diverse public universities. UF traces its beginnings to a small seminary in 1853. It opened its doors in Gainesville in 1906 with 102 students. Today, it is one of the most comprehensive and academically diverse universities in the nation, with an enrollment of some 54,000 students annually. UF is home to 16 colleges and more than 170 research centers and institutes and UF offers nearly 300 graduate degree programs. Only five other universities nationwide have as many programs of study on one campus as the University of Florida.

UF has a long history of established programs in international education, research and service. It is one of only 17 public, land-grant universities that belong to the Association of American Universities, the higher-education organization comprising the top 62 public and private institutions in North America. UF is consistently ranked among the nation's top universities: No. 7 in U.S. News & World Report's "Top Public Schools" (2020); No. 2 in Kiplinger's "Best Values in Public Colleges" (2017); and No. 3 on the Forbes list of best value public universities (2019). Additionally, UF ranked No. 6 in the New York Times list of universities that do the most to help low-income students (2015) and No. 3 in the Milken Institute's ranking of Best Universities for Technology Transfer.

UF has more than 6,000 faculty members with distinguished records in teaching, research and service, including 37 Eminent Scholar chairs and 45 faculty elections to the National Academy of Sciences, Engineering, the Institute of Medicine, or the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. Awards include a Fields Medal, three Pulitzer Prizes, NASA's top award for research, and Smithsonian Institution's conservation award.

UF's students are accomplished. Students admitted for the fall 2019 freshman class had an average 4.5 GPA and an average SAT score of 1395. The freshman retention rate of 97 percent is among the highest in the country and 68 percent of UF freshmen graduate in four years; 90 percent graduate in six years.

UF is dedicated to creating a broadly diverse environment necessary to foster cultural competencies and perspectives that support every Gator so they can thrive on campus and beyond. UF ranks fourth and fifth respectively in LatinX and African American graduates who go on to receive doctorates in STEM fields. It is also ranked first in the nation in terms of the number of African American female faculty in Engineering.

UF is a leader in research and discoveries which improve the lives of individuals throughout the state, nation and world. UF's research expenditures totaled a record $865 million in fiscal year 2018.

UF conducts over $20 million of industrial/company-sponsored research annually. This level of collaborative industry/academic research places UF among the top 25 public research universities in the United States for overall industrial sponsored research. These research collaborations occur across the entire campus, in diverse fields that include engineering, life sciences, pharmaceuticals, and medicine, as well as the physical and social sciences. Research into improving education techniques and learning outcomes has also been sponsored by a variety of companies, particularly in areas pertaining to improving the education of students from under-represented and low-income demographic groups. Industrial funding for UF research comes from Global 1000 companies as well as local and regional start-ups and corporate entrepreneurs, all of which seek to leverage the expertise of UF's world-class faculty to promote discoveries that will benefit the health and overall well-being of people worldwide.

The university is recognized as an international leader in technology commercialization. UF Innovate | Tech Licensing receives more than 300 invention disclosures, executes more than 100 commercial transactions, and launches about 20 companies each year. In 2017, the Milken Institute ranked UF third in the nation for its tech commercialization efforts. According to the most recent statistics from AUTM (FY2018), UF ranked 4th in the nation for licenses and options executed on technologies developed at the university level (228, which includes IFAS and Tech Licensing's commercial agreements), 7th in patents issued (128), and 9th in the number of start-ups (20).

The university has a 2,000-acre campus and more than 1,000 buildings (including 170 with classrooms and laboratories). The UF residence halls have a total capacity of some 7,500 students and the five family housing villages house more than 1,000 married and graduate students. The university's current facilities have a book value of more than $1 billion and a replacement value of $2 billion.

Overall, UF's economic impact on the state in fiscal year 2017-18 was $16.91 billion in industry output or sales revenues, $10.4 billion in contribution to State Gross Domestic Product, and 134,609 full-time and part-time jobs. That puts UF's total employment and gross state product contributions roughly on par with the direct activity of all hotels and motels in the state.
